CANDLES

Our History

Koster Keunen began as a family business after the 1852 wedding of Johanna Keunen and Bernhard Koster in Holland. The couple built their first factory in Aalst, Holland, to refine beeswax used in candles. This beeswax was sun bleached and predominantly used for the production of ceremonial and liturgical (church) candles throughout the continent of Europe.

Today, Koster Keunen continues as a family business, with manufacturing plants located in the United States and The Netherlands along with a fully integrated sustainability beeswax program anchored by our facility in Togo, West Africa.
